

KOFAM Profile

KOFAM stands for Kalinga Organic Farming Advocates Movement, a 4-year-old movement of thousands of Farmers planting and producing high-valued crops such as Rice, Corn, Sugar Cane, Coffee, Cacao, Fruit Bearing Trees and varieties of vegetables. KOFAM has several chapters in the northern part of the Philippines. The main objective of KOFAM is to organize farmers on the ground-level and push organic farming practices and market their products.

Now, KOFAM had sponsored local legislations on Organic Farming in the City of Tabuk Kalinga and planning to sponsor the same ordinance in other cities and municipalities where KOFAM chapters is existed to push farmers in practicing organic farming, agribusiness and partnership.

Now, KOFAM evolves from a membership organization to business with business registration as KOFAM Fruits and Vegetables Trading and KOFAM Agribusiness Development Corp., and KOFAM Training and Development Services

Its organizer, founder and head Mr. Vernie Compas, a Filipino Citizen and residing in the Philippines dreamed of helping and empowering farmers and contribute in the development of agriculture in the country.

KOFAM is having an office at Sun Trust Building in Quezon City in partnership with RTN-HMC Consulting Firm, with Red Lady Papaya Seedling Productions in Diadi, Nueva Vizcaya, signed a partnership agreement with Kalinga State University (KSU) to push and integrate organic farming, agribusiness and agri-tourism in the academe. KOFAM is also headquarter in a 2-hectare eco-tourism farm and resort in Brgy. Pintong Bukawe, San Mateo Rizal and where KOFAM Urban Farming Technology develops.

KOFAM aspires to set-up trading posts and post-harvest facilities in various regions including processing plant and produce its own local and international brand as KOFAM.

With the right leadership and team, KOFAM will soar high and contribute in the empowerment of farmers and transformation of community through holistic and inclusive economic development.
